Agilent CrossLab Familiarization services

When you order new Agilent instruments and software, all relevant eFamiliarization materials are included and will be used by the Agilent Service Engineer to enhance and tailor the Familiarization service on topics that are most important to you.

Agilent's eFamiliarization materials enable you to learn on-demand at your own pace, with or without an Agilent Engineer on your own PC, and independent of the hardware and software.

eFamiliarization materials are now available for most instruments and software. Check with your local representative for details.

Key benefits

- Getting started: Streamlined processes and tools ensure an efficient and effective Familiarization service
- Flexible curriculum: Customized training options allow you to tailor your learning experience
- Improved productivity: New tools and onsite mentoring from the Agilent Service Engineer lead to more rapid learning and more efficient operation

Familiarization solution workflow

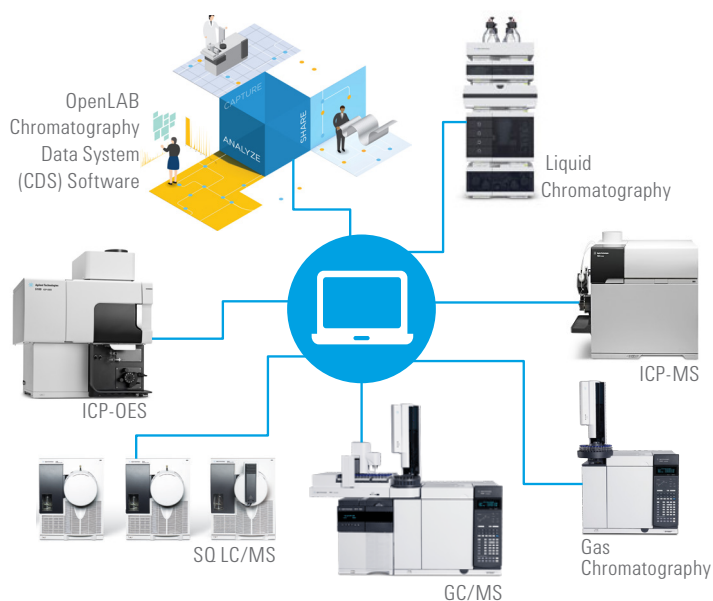

Your new Agilent hardware and software are supplied with eFamiliarization for immediate use or later on-demand learning.

Agilent Technologies
